How it works

We analyse your backup requirements and install a BDR Server at your premises. The BDR server takes scheduled backups of your data so it is ready to recover within minutes.

If data has to be recovered, you do not have to wait for a replacement server to arrive. The BDR server is already at your premises, ready to get you working again quickly.

Ponticello manages everything. We check the backups and send a daily monitoring report. If data needs to be recovered we remotely connect to the BDR server and start immediately.

There is never a good time for a RAID controller to go wrong, but ours decided that during a resource demand spike with two important project deadlines approaching, an important tender being worked on while juggling day-to-day activity would be the best time to irrevocably fail. While we were using cloud for much of the tender work, the projects and normal delivery were at risk as almost a million files and over two terabytes of data were suddenly inaccessible. We have a good off-site backup strategy in place but were looking at hours and hours of rebuilding. Thankfully Ponticello's BDR server solution was evoked instead and they virtualised everything quickly and efficiently. If anything, the backup server is even quicker than our old file server. Brilliant service and a very fast disaster recovery solution, Ponticello's BDR server is an excellent solution for a business like ours and is highly recommended.
